A: VMware player is free. VMware Player is a free software for virtual machine created by VMware Inc. The product has been available since 2004. In the latest version of VMware Player, released in 2008, new features were implemented such as Full screen mode, USB 2.0 device support, mounting and unmounting CD, DVD, and Floppy discs. The player also has an integrated viewer to open VMs without installing them. VMware player also provides 32-bit and 64-bit versions for Windows and Linux users. VMware Player 4.5 for Linux is available as x86 and x86-64 binaries. VMware Player 4.5 for Windows is available as x86 and x86-64. Q: Regex help - find words starting with @ and ending in /? I have this regex that I am not really sure if it is working as intended: string = "@myhost.com" reg = r"(@.*?)/" print reg.sub( string, "", "") the expected result is (@myhost.com) But in my string I have this string: @cfpxam@gmail.com which is giving this error: b' (?P@(?!P[^\@]+), )' because of this regex, I am assuming it is trying to capture the contents of a string in the second reg.. What would be a different regex that would work for this? A: Don't parse the whole thing into an intermediate string: match = re.search(r"(@.*?)/", string) Tykes Go For Glory In Saratoga 20 Apr 2017 Aberdeen's Ryan Wilson will lead the way this weekend when he lines up for their latest Devon & Northern League clash with Sherwood FC in the Elite section of the Lincolnshire Senior Cup with a place in the Final at stake. Aberdeen have lost three matches in a row, three nil defeats to Taunton Town, Flackwell Heath and Sutton United in the last eight of the Devon & Northern League North Group, an unacceptable form record for the side from the Granite City and one which must be reversed to progress this Sunday. Wilson has started every single League match this season so far and is scheduled to start on
